Musicians take to the streets at Silverton Sidewalk Shindig

CARLEE WRIGHT
STATESMAN JOURNAL

Music and merriment will fill the streets during the Silverton Sidewalk Shindig on Saturday.

Now in its fifth year, the downtown party is a free, family-friendly, grassroots event featuring an eclectic mix of music sure to please all tastes. Wander, explore and discover as more than 30 venues host about 120 hours of music.

Festivities kick off at noon with a performance by the Transcendental Brass Band in front of the Palace Theatre.

While the hours are roughly noon to 8 p.m., performances at some venues will continue until late in the night.

This year, a children's area has been added in Town Square Park. Open from 1 to 6 p.m., it will feature musical demonstrations, kids' performers and youth activities such as face painting and making your own musical instruments.

Ask questions, pick up a pamphlet, get directions and buy a limited-edition poster at the event information center at 107 N Water St.

And while the festival's big

SHELDON TRAVER
SPECIAL TO THE APPEAL TRIBUNE

More than 40 different musical acts played approximately 120 hours of music in Silverton on Saturday.

The fifth annual Sidewalk Shindig brought people from across Oregon to the city. Musicians played inside restaurants and cafes and on the street as crowds mingled and put tips into buckets. Music varieties included oldies, bluegrass, rock, violin, punk, reggae and more.

Event Coordinator Lawrence Stone said he isn't aware of any 1-day event like it in the Pacific Northwest.

"It really is a celebration of community that brings people to our historic downtown area," he said. "I know there are music celebrations that focus on one type of music, but none that offer this kind of variety as far as I know."

The Free Range Reveleers entertained a small crowd in front of Sidewalk Shindig.

Brad Hirsh and his daughter, Elizabeth, perform in front of The Red Bench.

It may just be an ideal day to invite friends or friendly family to town. If you fancy showing off the community, "It just has such a nice vibe," Gregg's enthusiasm brimmed in anticipation. "It's an unassuming presentation of what music should be, because it's part of everyone's life."

Jan McCorkle said she looks forward to the shindig; it sounds like a wonderful event to check out.

Now in its fifth year, the downtown party is a free, family-friendly, grassroots event featuring an eclectic mix of music sure to please all tastes. Wander, explore and discover as more than 30 venues host about 120 hours of music.

Festivities kick off at noon with a performance by the Transcendental Brass Band in front of the Palace Theatre.

While the hours are roughly noon to 8 p.m., performances at some venues will continue until late in the night.

This year, a children's area has been added in Town Square Park. Open from 1 to 6 p.m., it will feature musical demonstrations, kids' performers and youth activities such as face painting and making your own musical instruments.

Ask questions, pick up a pamphlet, get directions and buy a limited-edition poster at the event information center at 107 N Water St.

And while the festival's big highlight is music, that's not all attendees can enjoy. It is an ideal time to visit Silverton eateries, watering holes and businesses, plus take in a viewing of the town's murals, too.

Music, politics: Silverton keeping both harmonious

JUSTIN MUCH

Silverton streets will resonate a melodic charm the first Saturday in October, while the following Wednesday sights are set on harmonious discussions at the Silverton Grange.

Area residents look forward to the Fifth Annual Silverton Sidewalk Shindig, on Saturday, Oct. 1 as more than 30 venues about town will don the adornments of live music and or related activities.

On Wednesday, Oct. 5, no fewer than 11 local candidates are invited to discuss issues of importance right here at home during a public candidate forum hosted by the Silverton Grange, 6:30 p.m., 201 Division St.

Gregg Sheesley stopped in at the Silver Creek Coffee House for a Creekside Chat on the last day of summer, bringing a reminder that the first Saturday in October marks the Sidewalk Shindig. Gregg provided a glimpse of the event's program with a music and sponsor map, which attendees can use as reference while strolling through town to catch some tunes or perhaps partake in kids activities at the Town Square Park - that's where Hilary Dumitrescu is organizing a music theory workshop and youth activities ranging from face painting to making your own drum, kazoo, cigar-box ukulele or the like.

That shindig program has been supersized to fit this fifth rendition. Gregg also had a copy of the same program from the first shindig, a yellow 8 1/2 x 11 sheet easily eclipsed next to the flip-chart sized current roster.

Band names are listed along with numbers corresponding to the venue at which they will perform. Adjacent to the band name is the genre, or more precisely a pithy description of style, which is the most interesting script on the sheet in terms of demonstrating the event's eclectic nature: jam variety, brassy gusto, steel drum wizard, spreading more jam, violin duo, hula & more, guitar stylist, reggae & reggae,

Jan McCorkle said she looks forward to the shindig; it sounds like a wonderful event to check out.

“Everybody’s gunning for you when you set the bar that high,” Mannion said. “But that’s the type of program you want to be. Set the standard high.”

The Foxes were ravaged by injury problems a year ago and broke in a new quarterback in midseason yet still rallied to win their final two Mid-Willamette Conference league games to qualify for the playoffs.

“The league should be balanced; there are a lot of good teams,” Mannion said. “A lot of them legitimately have a chance to win the league and I like to think we are in that group. I like our team.”

Levi Nielsen took over the quarterback position midway through the season as a freshman and Mannion said he has “tons of potential. He’s shown a lot of growth and we’re happy with his progress. The next step is more games. That’s where things will speed up.”

Mannion said that there likely will not be a workhorse running back as the team has had in recent years with Chris Garcia and Sam Kuschnick. Instead, it will be more of a committee approach with Darren Buckley, Perry Davis, Kobe Garcia and track star Austin Haskett, who finished second in the 100 and the 200 at the district championships, carrying the mail. Nielsen will throw to receivers Garcia, Spencer Clements, Sam Morrison and his brother, Eli, who returns at tight end.

On the offensive line and defensive front seven Mannion has Ulysses Salazar, Ben Willis, David Espe, Colin Walker, Eli Nielsen, Buckley, Nick Tokarski and Mauricio Ramirez, who was injured last season.

At Kennedy, Joe Panuke enters his second year as head coach of the Trojans. Kennedy tied with Central Linn and Regis for the Tri-River Conference title and advanced to the state Class 2A championship game before falling to Heppner. Panuke has 13 seniors on this year’s squad and will be looking to quarterback Brett Traeger, running backs Bishop Mitchell and Damien Guerrero, tight end-linebacker Jack Suing and linemen David Wright, Davi Soto and Jeremy Kliewer to play key roles. Also in the mix are juniors Christian Reyes, Christian Larios and Anthony Garcia.

Kennedy, which finished 10-2 a year ago, is playing its typical nasty schedule. The Trojans open Friday, Sept. 2 at home vs. Class 3A Clatskanie and also plays up a rung Sept. 16 against visiting Harrisburg.

“We always want to be battle-tested by the time we hit league play,” Panuke said. “We haven’t played Harrisburg since I have been at Kennedy. They have been good the past few years.

“Our goal each year is to be in position to win a league title and earn a playoff spot. Central Linn and Regis return some really good football players and St. Paul and Santiam will be a lot better this year. If we play Trojan football and stay healthy we will be right there come the end of the season.”

Kennedy opens Tri-River play Sept 30 at Regis and hosts Central Linn the next week. *
